Young Shah Returning To Iranian Throne

Old Mossadegh Held Under Guard After New Premier Named

ROME (AP)—Triumphantly smiling Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, Shah of Iran, flew homeward today to the explosive country he fled five days ago.

Awaiting him in his land of carpets and oil were a new premier loyal to the monarchy, jubilant crowds cheering their 33-year-old ruler and a pajama-clad prisoner under heavy guard—old ex-Premier Mohammed Mossadegh.

Rome's Iranian colony and legation, which turned its back on the Shah's arrival as a fugitive Monday with 20-year-old Queen Soraya, came out in force to cheer his departure by plane early today.

In a chartered airliner, the Shah and a party of officials and newsmen headed for Baghdad, capital of his own country's next-door neighbor, Iraq.

The young monarch planned to lunch early this afternoon with Iraq's King Faisal, then perhaps fly on to Tehran later today.

QUEEN SORAYA, exhausted and upset by the excitement, remained in Rome to rest up.

Also left behind was the Shah's strong-willed twin sister, Princess Ashraf. Mossadegh had exiled her because she fought his encroachments on the royal power. She hurried from the Riviera to her brother's side yesterday. She said she might drop in on Tehran later for a visit.

Baghdad had been the Shah's first haven Sunday after Mossadegh's armed forces foiled the attempt of palace guards to enforce a royal decree naming Maj. Gen. Fazlollah Zahedi premier.

Fleeing to Iraq in his own plane, the Shah and his wife went on to Rome Monday by British airliner. He dashed homeward almost as hurriedly after Iran's masses and his army rallied to Zahedi and their ruler's standard and drove Mossadegh from his heavily-fortified home Wednesday. Three hundred or more died in the fighting.

The weepy-eyed old premier, who drove the British out of his nation's vast oilfields and then tried so hard to clip his ruler's power, surrendered yesterday to Zahedi at his headquarters in the Central Tehran Officers Club. Weak and limping, he still had on his habitual pink pajamas.

His future was uncertain. Zahedi, in a "give yourself up" broadcast 12 hours earlier, had said, "we will wait for the nation to say what should be done with him."

THE EX-PREMIER'S political adviser, Ali Shayergan, and two former cabinet members surrendered with him. There was no word of Mossadegh's chief henchman, fiery former Foreign Minister Hossein Fatemi. Earlier reports, never confirmed, said the mob tore him to pieces Wednesday.

Mossadegh and his three associates were held in rooms on the top floor of the Tehran officers club. Tanks and troops guarded the building.

Postmaster Cited In Embezzlement

CINCINNATI (AP)—The acting postmaster of Goshen, Clermont County, has been charged with embezzlement and falsification of records.

Walter R. Baumgardner, 49, was arraigned yesterday before U. S. Commissioner Graham P. Hunt Jr. He waived hearing and was released on $30,000 bond. He is accused of taking $1,700 in the last few months by reporting less money than was received at the postoffice for money orders.

Fall 'Washbook' Lists Price Cuts

CHICAGO (AP)—Sears, Roebuck & Co.'s 67th anniversary mid-season fall catalogue—390 pages—is ready for distribution. The company said prices have been cut on about 840 items, including kitchen ranges, home freezers, snowsuits, electric blankets and vitamins.

U. S. Atomic Chief Gives Out Warnings

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission says "it is idle to assume that it is beyond the capabilities of our potential enemies to develop atomic weapons with a tremendously destructive capacity."

"It is also a fallacy," he said, "to assume that a stockpile of atomic weapons in our hands is in itself any longer a complete deterrent to aggressive action."

Strauss made the statements in a letter to Sen. Wiley (R-Wis.) dated Aug. 19 and evidently written a few hours before Moscow announced that a type of hydrogen bomb had been exploded in a Soviet experiment.

The AEC chairman shortly thereafter issued a statement confirming that U. S. monitors had detected an atomic explosion in the Soviet, on Aug. 12, and that it included "thermonuclear" reactions, the scientific name for the hydrogen fusion process.

Wiley, Senate Foreign Relations Committee chairman, had written Strauss to ask his views on vulnerability of this country to possible atomic attack, saying many people live in a "fool's paradise" believing that possession of more atomic bombs would prevent an enemy attack.

"The destructiveness of atomic weapons is such that no one with any feeling of responsibility for the nation's welfare and his own and his family's safety can afford to dismiss, or ignore, or minimize the impact," Strauss replied.

Strauss said he agreed with Wiley that "the public generally should know everything that can be revealed that does not compromise military information and that concerns the nature and threat of atomic warfare." He added:

"The public should also have the most thorough familiarity with civilian defense requirements, and the apathy which has characterized this area in past years must be dispelled."

The letter, made public today by Wiley, came as members of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee were assembling for a closed session to discuss "current events."

Obviously, the latest Soviet atomic development was the big item on the agenda. Asked to brief committee members were officials of Strauss' commission and of the Central Intelligence Agency.

It seemed doubtful that there would be much elaboration, for the public, on Strauss' statement of early yesterday, which said the United States had produced in 1951 and 1952 atomic tests the same sort of reaction detected in the Aug. 12 Soviet blast.

ON OTHER strike fronts there was little perceptible change. Only a few railroad trains were running, though Socialists and Catholics offered their rail men back to work.

The government was reported to have promised the postal, telephone and telegraph strikers:

1. To call into session before Sept. 30 a commission to consider a general upward revision of French wages.

2. To take no sanctions against strikers.

3. To consult the unions before putting into effect Laniel's proposed economy decrees upping retirement age limits and cutting other benefits.

The settlement was expected to form a pattern for settlement of other strikes.

The Catholic union today restated its demand that Parliament be called back next week to consider the labor situation.

The Communist-led General Confederation of Labor, left out of the negotiations, had not yet indicated any end to its walkout.

15 Registered Herefords Killed

FAYETTEVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Flames swept through a livestock barn near here killing 15 registered Hereford bulls valued at $100,000 by their owner.

P. T. Holloway, a widely known livestock breeder, said he discovered the blaze when he returned home late yesterday. He said he led one $30,000 bull to safety.

The animals were being groomed for showing at the Lincoln County fair next month.

French Strike End Is Seen

Non-Red Unions Order Workers Back To Jobs

PARIS (AP)—Non-Communist unions ordered thousands of workers back to their jobs today, the first break in the wave of strikes that has strangled France for 16 days.

But the back-to-work trek was slow. Unions were meeting all over France to discuss the terms of settlement.

The Socialist Workers' Force and the Christian Labor Federation reached agreement with Premier Laniel's government early today for postal, telegraph and telephone workers to end their strike.

Other government workers were expected to join the movement.

But attempts to put in telephone calls to other cities in France still were fruitless this afternoon. The communications services were not expected to be back to normal before Monday.

ON OTHER strike fronts there was little perceptible change. Only a few railroad trains were running, though Socialists and Catholics offered their rail men back to work.

The government was reported to have promised the postal, telephone and telegraph strikers:

1. To call into session before Sept. 30 a commission to consider a general upward revision of French wages.

150 Rollicking American GIs Gain Freedom From Commies

PANMUNJOM (AP)—A rollicking 150 Americans, the largest single-day delivery yet in the Korean War prisoner exchange, rode out of Red captivity at this wayside village last night.

Eager as youngsters, they shouted and danced as they were freed with 300 South Koreans.

The Americans were from Camp 1 at Chongson on the Yalu River, the Red stockade for "incorrigibles" who resisted Communism.

The repatriates said the first group of Americans from a fourth Red prison—Camp 9 Kangye—arrived last night at Kaesong, the Red clearing site.

All other American POWs were sent back after being Camps 1, 3 and 5, including some men transferred to these camps from other stockades.

TODAY'S SHIPMENT was expected to include some Camp 9 prisoners, a number of whom were reported only recently captured.

The Reds said today's delivery would include 94 Americans—30 of Indian Resolution Gets Close Study In U. N. Assembly

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The Scandinavian countries today joined the growing list of U. N. governments lining up in favor of India's participation in the Korean peace conference.

Despite increased United States efforts to block the inclusion of India, Denmark this morning became a co-sponsor of an Australia-New Zealand resolution recommending a seat for Prime Minister Nehru's government.

BOTH SWEDEN and Norway later told the General Assembly's 60-nation Political Committee they would support the proposal.

A short time later, Cuba became the first U. N. member to line up with the United States in opposing India's inclusion in the conference.

Meanwhile, the delegates studied a new Indian proposal which some said would give Communist China and North Korea a veto over the U. N.'s choices for the conference table.

The new Indian move coincided with a stepup by the United States in its drive to keep India out of the negotiations. U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. announced he would vote against inviting India to the conference table.

The General Assembly's 60-nation Political Committee meanwhile kept up its efforts to pick a slate of representatives to sit at the conference. Committee Chairman Joao Carlos Muniz of Brazil said if the delegates didn't hurry up, they couldn't finish by next week.

The Indian resolution proposed that U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold communicate the Assembly's decisions to the North Korean and Peiping regimes "and report to the General Assembly as appropriate."

INDIAN Delegate V. K. Krishna Menon said it was purely procedural, but U. S. delegates thought they saw a gimmick in it. They said it would require careful study.

A member of the Indian delegation said privately that the resolution would give the Communist combatants, China and North Korea, a chance to comment on the U. N. decisions, and possibly to reject them. These two countries are not members of the U. N. and not taking part in the current discussions here.

Lodge has maintained that the Korean armistice agreement is clear in its provisions that the "two sides" of the Korean war should choose their own representatives. On this basis, Lodge opposed a Soviet proposal to invite Red China and North Korea to attend the Assembly debates.

British and Canadian sources said they favored the new Indian proposal as a wise procedural move. Both Britain and Canada are urging India's participation in the Korean peace parley.

Lodge previously had stated only that he would not vote for India, leaving open the question whether this meant a negative vote or his less-emphatic abstention. His statement of outright opposition last night was designed to attract wavering members to his side.

The United States has agreed to support a proposal recommending Russia's participation in the conference provided the two Communist combatants want her. Adoption of this proposal is assured, but Russia has not yet indicated whether she would attend on the basis of the resolution.

Ohio Employment Record Is Set

COLUMBUS (AP)—Records for employment, number of employers and size of payrolls in Ohio were shattered in 1952.

The Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation reports some 83,000 employers paid $9,294,000, or to an average of 2,396,000 workers. Only employers subject to the Ohio Unemployment Compensation Law—those with three or more workers each—were included.

Only decreases were in the mining and quarrying industries, where employment and payrolls were down as result of a strike.

Con Killed In Western Prison Riot

MONROE, Wash. (AP)—Three-hundred inmates of the Washington State Reformatory last night went on a destructive spree that ended hours later with one man dead, three injured and five of the institution's sprawling buildings destroyed by fire.

Half of the rioters were in a cell block, the others on the grounds in the center of the buildings they had set torch to in a sudden outbreak of frenzied viciousness.

The rioters struck without warning during the evening recreation period. One group took over one of the reformatory's two large cell blocks and the other ran through the grounds setting fire to the surrounding buildings.

Three-hundred other prisoners took no part in the uprising.

Guards at first made no effort to stop the stone-throwing, bathing, cursing, howling convicts.

Then, several hours after the first outbreak at 7 p. m., a group of the men on the grounds tried to break through the gate. Guards, almost shoulder to shoulder atop the 30 foot high walls and armed with everything from riot guns to tommyguns, opened fire.

Four men fell. One was mortally wounded. Another, struck by a ricocheting bullet which passed through his head right behind his eyes, lay on the ground screaming.

Doctors said later he would be forever sightless.

The other two were not wounded seriously.

He Offered Help (To Wrong Party)

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The purse-snatcher was too swift for Miss Olive Patrick's 50 years, but she didn't give up at first.

She chased the culprit after he grabbed her purse containing $6.25. He was gaining ground when she came upon a parked automobile with the driver at the wheel.

"That man got my purse," she exclaimed.

"He did?" responded the driver. He started the car, caught up with the purse-snatcher, opened the door . . . and the purse-snatcher jumped in. They both drove off.

Reports of the successful control of mosquitoes here are beginning to percolate into the far areas. City Manager James F. Parkinson is receiving inquiries as to the methods used here and the type of material used in preventing hatching of the mosquitoes and killing all larvae.

The secret lies largely in persistent use of "Tossit," a capsule containing a chemical which is death to mosquitoes in all stages.

So far this year the effort to keep the mosquito pest under control has been very successful and probably has not cost more than $100 for the chemical, Parkinson said this week.

For many years, until more modern methods came into use, including "Tossit," the mosquito pest here was so pronounced that people could not remain outside their homes after nightfall without being bitten by the hordes of these insects, and unless bedrooms were mosquito tight, sleep was interrupted by their threatening buzz.

Morocco Gets Another Sultan

French Maintaining Iron Hand On Colony

PARIS (AP)—Moulay Mohammed Ben Arafah was proclaimed as the new Sultan of Morocco today.

Moroccans received calmly the news that Arafah, the 64-year-old uncle of Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef, who was deposed by France as Sultan yesterday and sent into exile on Corsica, is to move into the ruler's palace at Rabat.

Apparently the threat of civil war between the deposed Sultan's Nationalist followers and the Berber countrymen who rallied behind Pasha Thami El Glaoui of Marrakech had receded.

No outbreaks of violence were reported, either in French Morocco or Tangier, the international zone.

But France maintained an iron vigil over her North African protectorate. Heavy guards were alert in all Moroccan cities.

A FRENCH government spokesman announced last night that Arafah, a wealthy resident of Fez, would succeed to the throne as Morocco's temporal and religious ruler.

The senior religious council of Morocco, a tribunal of Ulemas or religious scholars, confirmed the selection today in a meeting at Fez.

Next will come Arafah's solemn enthronement at Rabat. The time of this ceremony has not been set.

He was taking the boy to a hospital when he was stricken with a fatal heart attack. The coroner said the child was only bruised.

Experts Pondering Future In U. S.-Soviet H-Bomb Race

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia is following closely in the path of the United States, if not actually catching up, in the race for mastery of atomic weapons.

It may some day overtake this country in the number of stockpiled weapons, but the point is relatively unimportant, in the opinion of many experts.

For the time will come, these authorities believe, when the Soviet Union will have at its disposal enough bombs to pose an extremely dangerous threat to American security, regardless of how many bombs the U. S. possesses.

Officials here say the measure of Soviet progress in the drive for greater military power is one of the more significant aspects of Moscow's announcement that a type of "hell bomb" had been exploded.

THE FACT that the explosion came off, and that Moscow's report of it was verified by outside observation, marks a new stage in Russia's progress. Also, it introduces into policy calculations of governments all over the world a hard new fact—that the Soviet Union may be whittling down the margin of atomic superiority which the free nations in years past have won like a shield against the threat of aggression.

What impact this may make upon international relations is still a subject of pure speculation, except that it seems certain to bring new demands for disarmament and atomic weapons bans without any evidence that East and West can get together on the central issue of how to disarm.

There may be strong new pressures from small nations to find and secure neutrality for themselves in the hope that a possible conflict of the titans would somehow pass them by.

The Russians are assumed here to have a number, perhaps relatively small, of atomic bombs and the know-how at least of the hydrogen bomb device.

As policy makers here see it, it will not be necessary for the Russians to make as many bombs as the United States in order to establish a kind of balance with this country. It will merely be necessary for the Soviets to have enough bombs, coupled with the capacity to deliver them, to be able to do this country vast damage should war come.

Lions Club Here To Aid Safety

'Lite-a-Bike' Campaign Soon To Be Started

The board of directors of the Washington C. H. Lions Club have voted unanimously to sponsor a "Lite-a-Bike" Safety Campaign. Chairman of the campaign named is L. F. "Skeet" Everhart.

City Manager James F. Parkinson and Police Chief Vaiden Long have voiced their complete appreciation to the Lions club for proposing such a worthwhile project and have offered their help and assistance.

THE PROJECT consists of emphasizing that bicycle safety responsibility falls on: (1)-the bicycle rider; (2)-parents of bicycle riders; and (3)-automobile drivers.

The committee hopes to emphasize this in various way throughout the year.

The first phase of the safety campaign consists of an offer to all bicycle owners by the Lions club of "reflecting" their bicycles without charge with reflecting tape.

With the plan set up each bicycle would be covered with strips of the tape applied to both fenders and the handlebars. For after dark riding the tape is reflective when automobile lights strike it and can be seen for distances up to one-half mile.

EVERHART MADE it plain today that the tape does not take the place of lights for night operation prescribed by law, but it does give auto drivers a better opportunity to see approaching bicycles. Members of the Lions club will apply the tape to the bicycles and designated times and locations will be announced within a few days.

So far throughout the United States nearly three million bicycles have been equipped with this kind of tape, it is reported.

Serving on the Lions Club committee with Everhart are Robert Wise and Robert "Bud" Meriweather, Jr.

Young Gunman Kills, Robs Ohio Trucker

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (U. P.) — A young father of two children killed and robbed an Ohio truck driver early today after directing the victim into Fort Wayne, police said.

Detective Capt. Mitchell Cleveland said Charles E. Roberts, 25, admitted in a signed statement he shot Dale Roy Young, 27, Barber, Ohio, and took $32 and his wrist watch.

The statement said the shooting took place about 15 minutes after Roberts had robbed a filling station on U.S. 30 at the east edge of Fort Wayne.

Roberts said in the statement that Young asked for directions and he told the Ohio man to follow him. Roberts said he drove his 1929 model car into Fort Wayne and circled aimlessly around.

He said Young became angry, got out of the cab of his truck and yelled:

"What the hell are you trying to do?"

Roberts said he fired one shot from his shotgun, which struck Young in the chest.

Nearby residents gave police a description of the old model car and Roberts was arrested 10 minutes later.

Roberts' statement said he was "confused and (does) not remember what took place too clearly."

Police could not determine how much money was taken from the filling station.

Not All Women Gold-Diggers, Veteran Lady Lawyer Says

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor
Most women are not gold-diggers, says Tiera Farrow, a practicing lawyer in Kansas City, Mo., for 50 years.

Miss Farrow, pink-cheeked and white-haired, has handled thousands of divorce cases in her long career in the law. Her verdict:

"Most women don't want alimony these days, unless there are children to be supported. And even then many prefer to take over the responsibility of raising their offspring alone. Modern women are self-sufficient, able to stand on their own feet, and most of them get married or unmarried for love and not for money."

This pioneer female lawyer whose book "Lawyer in Petticoats" will be published next month, started her practice in 1903, when there were only 200 women lawyers in the country. Today there are 4,000. In those days, she says, judges were alarmed and spectators shocked to see a woman take her place in the lawyers' enclosure of a courtroom. She recalls:

"All lawyers rely heavily on precedent. But when I took my first case, I didn't have any precedent. I had never seen another woman lawyer. I didn't know whether I should take my hat off in the courtroom, or where I should sit, or anything. So I just had to figure it out or myself."

Soon, she says, she was able to overcome the prejudice against "lawyers in skirts" and prove that in certain cases a woman can be more effective than a man. One of these is in representing the wife in a divorce case. Says she:

"A woman just naturally understands the problems of another woman better than a man does, and is more sympathetic. Also, she's willing to let her client talk—and women love to talk about their troubles, you know. A man lawyer

Beat and Robbed Pair of $10,000

According to a news report from Chillicothe, a pair of thugs who last March brutally beat Ray Walley, 52, and his wife, in their home on Eastern Avenue in Chillicothe, are under arrest, and have been identified.

Chillicothe authorities have filed charges against the men, Robert R. Taylor, 41, Charleston, W. Va., and Truehart Lawson, 48, of Huntington, W. Va., who are being held in Charleston as suspects in the shooting of W. M. Thomas, Charleston attorney, on April 6.

The pair entered the Walley apartment on the pretext of buying a used car. Mrs. Walley was away at the time, and she returned she found her husband brutally beaten and lying in a pool of blood.

One of the thugs struck her across the mouth and then tied up her and her husband. They then debated whether to kill the Walleys, but finally left them, taking $10,000 Walley had in his home.

Soon after the two men were arrested, Lawson escaped, but was re-arrested in Pittsburgh a few days ago.

Taylor and Lawson were first connected with the robbery in Chillicothe, when the police noted the pattern of a crime in Charleston was similar to that in Chillicothe.

The Walleys have identified both of the men as the ones who beat and robbed them.

If the two men are not prosecuted in Charleston, they will be returned to Chillicothe for prosecution there.

250 Slabs Bacon
Lost In Blaze
DENVER (U. P.) — The smell of sizzling bacon covered northern Denver last night as more than 250 slabs of the breakfast standby went up in smoke.

A $15,000 fire swept through the K & B Packing Company's smokehouse. Also destroyed was the automatic control which regulated the amount of fumes that should normally smoke a ham.

The Nation Today

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—If this story had a title it would be: A tale of no progress, or how history repeats itself.

In January 1946, five months after the first atomic bomb had been dropped on Hiroshima, the General Assembly of the United Nations held its first meeting.

At once it voted to create a commission to find an answer to the question: how to get all nations to agree to outlaw the bomb in such a way that no one could cheat?

By Sept. 23, 1949 the commission, which included the United States and Russia, had met more than 200 times without finding a solution. On that date President Truman had an important announcement.

The Russians, he said, had produced an atomic explosion. He said this development emphasized the necessity for "truly effective, enforceable international control of atomic energy."

Four years passed, a period in which it seemed likely the Russians might have been able to build a stockpile of several hundred bombs and the United States, since it had a head start, might have been able to store thousands.

In order to be sure it stayed ahead of the Russians the United States, in those four years, began work on the hydrogen bomb. The Russians apparently were doing the same, although they didn't say so.

In those same four years the U.N. commission couldn't find a formula for outlawing atomic weapons on which Russia and the West could agree.

Yesterday, just a little less than four years after Truman announced they had produced an atomic explosion, the Russians announced they had exploded a kind of hydrogen bomb.

Immediately the United States Atomic Energy Commission confirmed the Russian claim to the extent of indicating the Russians had managed an explosion of a hydrogen nature, similar to earlier American tests.

And yesterday, just a few hours after these statements by Russia and the United States, the U.N. Disarmament Commission held a brief session in New York and adopted its annual report.

In the seven years since January 1946, had the commission found a way to control atomic weapons and a formula for general disarmament? No. The commission just wanted to report its failure to agree.

The commission, in fact, had not met since October 1952, because of a deadlock between the West and Russia. For one thing, Russia opposed the West's plan for checking on a nation's atomic development.

The commission's report said, did not meet because no new plans had been offered since October a year ago.

And yesterday—just as on the day in 1949 when Truman told the world of Russia's atomic explosion and called for renewed efforts to control the bomb—Sen. Wiley, Wisconsin Republican, made a plea.

Wiley, chairman of the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee now attending the General Assembly meeting in New York, proposed action by the American and Russian governments to control atomic power.

Andre Vishinsky, the Soviet delegate, was reported to have said yesterday that he may have something "in time," which means he'll suggest a Russian disarmament plan in the Assembly in September.

Since the West and Russia haven't been able yet to find the answer to the question raised in the United Nations seven years ago, there's no reason to expect they'll find one any time soon.

Ex-Judge Due To Plead Innocent

CLEVELAND (AP)—Former Probate Judge Nelson J. Brewer is expected to plead innocent to a charge of embezzling $2,202 from the estate of a mentally incompetent man he served as guardian.

The grand jury indicted the 69-year-old ex-jurist yesterday. He resigned last July 21 during a bar association investigation. He served as guardian to the late Samuel Mond from 1925 to 1940 and is charged with embezzling the money between 1928 and 1932 in connection with rent collected from a Trumbull County farm on which Mond held a mortgage.

DISCHARGED from a New York hospital after a six-week illness, Patricia Murphy Wallace Vanderbilt, 33, from whom Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., obtained a Reno divorce June 30, applied for relief. She said her sole assets were two pawn tickets for $250 on her wedding ring and $450 on a mink coat. (International)

Columbus Man Supreme Head Order of Moose

MIAMI, Fla., August 21 (Special)—By unanimous acclaim Judge Willard D. Campbell, Columbus, Ohio, was chosen Supreme Governor of the Loyal Order of Moose for the ensuing year at the 65th international convention of the fraternity here. Judge Campbell succeeds Fritchof T. Sallness, Saginaw, Mich.

Willard D. Campbell

The new leader of the Moose recently completed a three year term as Director of the Bureau of Code Revision for Ohio. Previously he served as prosecuting attorney, state senator and judge of the common pleas court.

Since his affiliation with the Moose fraternity, Campbell has served as lodge governor, president of the Ohio Moose Association, supreme prelate, supreme junior governor and has been a member of the Supreme Council of the Order since 1946.

Judge Campbell is married and has two children.

Pigs Too High; Calf Chase Readied

MT. PLEASANT, Mich. (AP)—County 4-H Club Agent Robert Acker admitted that he just couldn't bring home the bacon.

Of course, he was after live bacon in the form of thirty 60-pound feeder hogs for the annual greased pig scramble at the Farm and Youth Fair Aug. 25-29.

The high price of pork was the reason, Acker said. Farmers just won't sell.

In the event, young boys chase the pigs, catch them, feed them until December and collect the profit. Acker was happy to announce though that the price of beef was cheaper and the calf scramble would be held as scheduled.

Thief Arranges Rest For Victim

MANSFIELD, La. (AP)—A young man walked into the De Soto Parish Courthouse yesterday and asked Sheriff Harmon Burgess if an uncle could sober up on a jail cot.

Burgess said the man put his uncle to bed and left, saying he would be back later for him.

When the older man sobered up, the sheriff related, he said he didn't have a nephew, then discovered he didn't have a car either.

An alert was out today for a young man, about 20, driving an automobile loaded with luggage, a television set and several small appliances.

Although El Salvador is the smallest country in the Western Hemisphere it is the world's third largest producer of coffee—Brazil and Colombia being first and second.

1,559 Enrolled During Season

Sabina Camp Grounds Prove Popular

During the present season 1,559 adults were enrolled at the Sabina Camp Grounds for one or more of the series of meetings held there. The camp closes Saturday.

The meetings included those of seven youth groups, also the Woman's Society for Christian Service and the Wesleyan Guild.

Six of the seven youth groups have been intermediates, children entering the seventh, eighth and ninth grades this fall. The other group was composed of 10th, 11th and 12th graders and those up to 23 years of age.

A large number attended the School of Missions held for several days in July, many Fayette Countians being included in the group.

The sessions opened June 21 with a large group of young people from the Cincinnati district.

The largest group on the grounds this year was from the Springfield district with 230 youth and 29 faculty members registered.

This week the Wilmington district has 118 enrolled under the direction of Rev. Noble M. Rompel, Xenia.

The grounds are located in the eastern edge of Sabina, and have increased in popularity during recent years.

Dr. McConnell was 82 years of age and was widely known in Methodist Church circles. He had been in failing health for six months.

He was born in Trinway, Ohio, and educated at Ohio Wesleyan University. He was president of DePauw University from 1909 to 1912, and was once president of the Federal Churches of Christ.

His widow, a son and daughter survive.

Where Is Cominform Now! And Where Is Ana Pauker?

By RICHARD O'REGAN
BUCHAREST (AP)—Where is the headquarters of the Cominform, the world-spanning, secret propaganda agency of the Kremlin that transmits Moscow's revolutionary orders?

Where is Ana Pauker? These are two of the current mysteries about Communist Romania to which American correspondents sought answers when invited here for the first time in five years.

The Cominform's powerful general staff is supposed to be in this Romanian capital. From Bucharest instructions allegedly go out to Red agents the world over.

We asked a Romanian official where it was. He looked shocked at our audacity and replied: "I really have no idea."

We questioned Western diplomats. One pointed out a heavily guarded ring of big residences in northern Bucharest. Entry to the area is stopped by armed militia. He said it might be there.

Another diplomat said no, that was probably the headquarters of the Central Committee of the Romanian Communist party. The Cominform, he said, is rumored to be quartered in the country club of a former oil company at Lake Snagov.

All the diplomats really knew was that the second meeting of the world's top Communist bosses met in the late King Carol's moonlit summer palace in Sinaia in 1949, and that certain secret meetings of the Cominform's staff may take place in the English-style country house of a former princess at Posada, in the Carpathian foothills.

Bushy-haired, Jewish-born Ana Pauker, once the world's most powerful woman Communist and Romania's foreign minister, used to live in a big house on Bucharest's fashionable Chaussee Kisselef. More than a year ago she was bounced as foreign minister and as a member of the Politburo. Although a lifelong friend of Stalin's, she was accused of "secret meetings" against the Red state.

A Romanian who claimed to know told us she was sent to the Kremlin after she was kicked out of the government. There were rumors she was arrested or had died. After her dismissal, diplomats said, she traveled around Bucharest in a big car, visited government offices and was in the Romanian Parliament last December. She was seen on Bucharest's streets in May.

Asked specifically, Grigore Preoteasa, assistant foreign minister, told U. S. correspondents all the rumors were "fantasy and idle talk."

"She is in Bucharest and is no longer a member of the government," that was all he would say.

Egyptian Chief Calling For War

CAIRO (AP)—Egypt's acting president, Vice Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser, opened the Moslem Feast of Bairam today with a call for Egyptians to prepare for total war against "British occupation."

His warning to Britons to evacuate their military forces from the disputed Suez Canal zone was cheered wildly by an estimated 100,000 Egyptians.

Informal Anglo-Egyptian talks to try settling the Suez dispute are still on officially although a scheduled meeting last Monday was canceled by the Egyptians.

Mother Of 16 Charges Cruelty

ALBUQUERQUE (AP)—Mrs. Mela Ramirez, mother of 16 children and expecting the 17th, has filed suit in district court asking separation from her husband Ignazio after 29 years.

She alleges cruel treatment over the last five years.

Corn Of High Quality Is Being Packed In City

One of the best corn packs in recent years is now underway in this part of Ohio. At the Fayette Canning Co. plant here the pack is rated as of excellent quality and the yield as being unusually good.

Packing corn started at the local plant August 10 and upward of 150 persons are engaged in work of packing the 700 acres which will go into the cans at the local plant.

The pack here will be completed within the next two weeks, it is indicated, and will have been one of the most successful on record.

Other plants in this part of Ohio are also engaged in packing corn at the present time.

It is still undecided whether pumpkin will be packed here this fall, it is indicated.

Per capita production of electricity in Sweden is about the same as that in the United States.

Maybe Our Help To Korea Will Do Some Good

Whatever else history may have to say about the Korean War, it will certainly list it as more than a "police action." And the job of rebuilding the Republic of Korea is equally certain to be described as far more than a "cleanup job." It is, in fact, going to be a major undertaking of the most far-reaching kind.

Water and communication systems have been destroyed, harbors, bridges, railroad lines have been blown apart, electric power lines have been rendered completely useless, and the devastation of major cities and towns has been appalling. To rebuild Korea will require the joint effort of the Korean people and the assistance of the United States to a huge extent.

This is one of the consequences of war today. To the victors belong the tasks of rehabilitating the losers and the victors' allies as well. Ultimately, the question of determining who won and who lost becomes academic. Everyone loses.

If we are to achieve any tangible results from this war, we shall achieve them in an area not dreamed of by former President Truman when he sent our forces into action. We may achieve them by demonstrating to the people of the Far East that we can help Korea to rebuild its devastated land into a modern national state.

The Korean people have shown the courage and capacity. They can use the heavy machinery and the technical know-how of America to good advantage.

Answer In Steel

The collapse of the capitalistic system so long predicted by the Communist logicians seems to be as bum a guess as ever.

Mr. Marx and Mr. Lenin held the view that capitalistic countries would hasten the process of destruction. To date, the collapse has not taken place, and the wars which have occurred have struck hardest at those countries which have adopted socialistic approaches to economics and government.

Here in our own country, the current figures of steel production are significant replies to Communist preaching. In the first seven months of 1953, the steel makers of America produced more than 67 million tons. A new high point was reached in July, despite the already abundant indications that the Korean war was coming to a close. No other country at any time has turned out as much of the basic material represented by steel.

We are making tremendous strides in building the new plants and new equipment which the future will demand. Steel, American style, is an answer to the Malenkov-Stalin hopes.

Give Me Subsidy!

In a recent speech, Dr. U. G. Dubach, professor of political science at Lewis and Clark College, Portland, Oregon, made this cogent observation: "We want the budget cut, but we don't want cuts for appropriations affecting Portland."

He added that this generation, unlike that of Patrick Henry's time, has a philosophy of "Give me subsidy or you can't have my vote."

Dr. Dubach thus characterized the worst disease that now affects the body politic. The idea that government economy is for the other fellow, never for us, is rampant. It is a commonplace for local chambers of commerce and other organizations to demand rigorous economy as a principle—and cry to high heaven when cuts affecting their areas are proposed.

Here is one of the reasons why a balanced budget and tax reduction have not been possible so far. Even more important, the attitude it represents saps the character and fiber of the people, and implacably undermines the foundations of free, representative government.

Advertising Taboos Vary

NEW YORK (AP)—It is now a matter of record that a man in the advertising business can get ulcers in Karachi or Johannesburg or Hong Kong just as easily as he does in New York.

Only the causes vary. In India, he has to avoid sex in at least 14 different languages. In Latin-America, he can pull out almost all the stops. In Hong Kong, he can't tell the Chinese to smoke a given cigarette without saying please. The Chinese are very sensitive about courtesy.

In Calcutta, he can't even tell the Hindus to smoke, please. The Hindi language just has no word for smoke. Over there, it comes out "drink a cigarette."

All this information I picked up this week while smoking a few drinks with foreign office managers of the Grant Advertising Agency. Besides talking over local problems, they played local commercial recordings for us.

You should have heard that shampoo commercial sung in the Tagalog and Cebuana dialects of the Philippines. Personally, I like it better that way.

An Indian toothpaste jingle was accompanied by a band that sounded like a callopie falling apart. Indian musicians, it was explained, will use eight different rhythms at once while they employ only a five-note scale.

Some things are the same the world over. A filmed TV commercial in Mexico City showed a pretty blonde stepping out to a diving board. Just as she was about to go in a singing voice said, "Un momento," and she was called back for her hair oil.

An ad appearing in India, said Aubrey Mendietta of Bombay, can't show a girl kissing. Several merchants who tried it had their shop windows stoned by angry mobs. Hindus insist that sex is private.

No Indian woman can be pictured in anything but the most proper clothes. Decolletage is absolutely out. This, said Mendietta, adds to the advertiser's problems in view of the fact that 80 per cent of the shopping, even for women's clothes, is done by men. However, Hindus don't object to seeing American or British women shown in bathing suits.

But in Latin-America, the neck line in ads plunges even lower than in North America. This despite the fact that Latin-Americans, as individuals, generally are modest.

In Brazil, the ad writer cannot speak of a "fresh cigarette" because in Portuguese the word "fresh" has a naughty connotation.

In Venezuela, a man said, you can claim anything. You can say your tire is the "only puncture-proof, blow-out proof tire in the world." They have no laws or codes against such things.

In South Africa, mobile units carry recorded commercials in English, Afrikaans, Zulu, Basuto and other tribal tongues. They are played in native villages, where frequently the favorite music is American jive.

In Hong Kong, the advertiser has to lay off the color blue. Chinese associate it with funerals. Red goes over big. The Chinese think it is accompanied by good luck, and frequently clothe their kids in red to "drive away the devil." It's just a superstition, not politics.

By George Sokolsky

Pre-Occupation With Sex Talk

It would seem to me that Dr. Kinsey has set out to make sex unpopular. The romantic poets thought of a beautiful woman and wrote their poems about an ennobling personality. The moralists spoke in terms of righteous living within the family and regarded the biologic process of procreation as a means toward increasing the race.

Dr. Kinsey, who is supported by Indiana University, Rockefeller Foundation and the National Research Council, concerns himself apparently with the sex process as a thing in itself, as an animal device employed by humans.

I read his book on the male only because in my profession I need to know why 250,000 buy a book. How many read more in that book than the piquant details of unusual processes, I do not know. It told me nothing that I had not learned as a youth on the sidewalks of New York.

In those days, parents blushed at the thought that their children will be even as they were, so what we needed to know we learned from other boys and sometimes from "bad girls." The point is that we had no doubts in our minds that they were bad girls and we rejected their attitude. If a boy found that his sister was a bad girl, he would get his gang together and there would be a fight with the bum who made her bad.

We had heard of homosexuals but not by any such fancy name. Generally, we thrashed them for the good of their souls. We never heard of sex crimes until Harry Thaw killed Stanford White and then we got an earful. But that was for rich people. In our crowd, such goings on were unknown and I would wager that they did not happen because the walls were of paper and the eyes and ears of childhood enormous.

Dr. Kinsey's book on the male struck me as an unnecessary accumulation of useless information to satisfy the curiosity of the morbid.

I read a piece in the newspapers by some lawyer or other who jumped Kinsey's gun by telling that all sundry that if the law caught up with us for our sexual practices, most of us would go to jail. He said something about our evasions of the law on sex being worse than bootlegging. So he wants to get excited about that.

Up here on my farm, sex is a normal condition among robins, woodchucks, rabbits, deer and humans. The subject is so normal that it is no more discussed than the operations of the other 3,000, more or less, parts of the human body. The most interesting gossip among my neighbors is when a girl is unfortunate before marriage. If the boy fails to act up like a man, he is liable to hear from the girl's father or brother. Sometimes the state police intervene and the worst thing that can happen is when a "state woman," as they call her, shows up on the scene. That, for some unaccountable reason, brings matters to a head.

Small boys know that a cow is serviced and that pigs produce litters. They take it in their stride, as they do when chickens or pigeons lay eggs, the biologic processes of which they understand. They do not need to read Kinsey's book to tell them what makes all that lives continue. They even know why wasps and beetles and snakes and frogs go on living.

I am debating whether I shall read Kinsey's book on the female. My favorite chapter in the Bible is Ruth who seems to me to be a very charming girl. When I was very young, I thought I would write an opera, words and music, about Ruth, alas. I went into the drabness of politics instead. I wonder what Kinsey's book would do to Ruth. Also the personality of Elizabeth Barrett Browning appeals to me.

Then I can never forget Maude Adams in "Peter Pan." I used to deliver flowers back in those days as a side job and I actually saw Miss Adams off the stage! Tell me, shall I think of her as a counted bug in Kinsey's statistics?

Heaven forbid that anyone should even think of his wife as merely a partner in sex. She is the mother of his children, which is more important.

Diet and Health Skin Pigmentations May Affect Emotions

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Though it is primarily a cosmetic problem, degree of pigmentation of one's skin may have a profound effect on the emotions, and perhaps even affect the social aspects of a person's life.

One of the most difficult problems faced by men and women is over- or under-pigmentation of their skin that may follow certain diseases. When this abnormal pigmentation occurs on the exposed portions of the hands, legs, or face, its effect may be particularly painful emotionally.

Some Causes

A substance in the skin known as melanin determines the amount of coloration present. Diseases of the adrenal glands or Addison's disease may cause extreme pigmentation of the body. Some perfume can bring over-pigmentation on the parts of the body where it has been applied. In certain diseases such as vitiligo, there is lack of pigmentation and white spots appear on the skin. Pregnancy may cause over-coloration and darkening of the skin.

Some persons have difficulty with this condition when the skin is exposed to sunlight. Most persons ignore freckles; however some women and men are cosmetically ashamed of them.

Until recently, little results have been obtained in treating over-pigmentation of the skin. Ammoniated mercury and hypochlorite bleaches were used frequently without great success.

In the past few years, however, a prepared and purified ointment has finally been perfected which can be prescribed by the physician. It is a preparation of monobenzyl ether of hydroquinone.

Morocco Sultan Said De-Throned

PARIS (AP)—A French news agency dispatch from Rabat said the Sultan of Morocco has been removed from his throne.

The dispatch said an announcement of the removal came just as Gen. Augustin Guillaume, the French resident general, had gone into the palace of Sultan Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef. The palace was surrounded by 30 French tanks and other armed vehicles.

The French said the Sultan would be taken away from Rabat, the capital of the North African protectorate.

Ike Learning Politics Quickly

By Ray Tucker

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 — The transfer of the able and likeable Walter Williams from Commerce to the White House staff on the eve of President Eisenhower's departure for his Denver vacation reflects Ike's awareness of congressional and party Republicans' dissatisfaction with his handling of bread-and-butter political chores. Specifically, it implies a recognition of mounting criticism of Sherman Adams, liaison man with Capitol Hill and the GOP.

Williams is as gracious, as co-operative and as understanding as the Yankee from New Hampshire is aloof and Olympian. A successful businessman, he once headed the Committee for Economic Development, a group of industrialists who advocate the mildly liberal policies which Eisenhower privately favors but does not always advocate as President.

NOT HAPPY—In view of his connections with business and industry, it had been expected that Williams would rate the job as secretary of commerce. But when politics required the appointment of Sinclair Weeks of Massachusetts, an Adams crony and co-worker in the New England organization's affairs, Williams became under secretary. It is understood that he has not been too happy as second to the wealthy Bay Stater, who has made several major blunders in his six months in Washington.

Ike, however, cannot forget his political debts to Weeks and Adams. They were largely responsible for his defeat of the late Senator Taft in the key New Hampshire primary early in 1952. Had Eisenhower been rebuffed in his first test in the East, the place of his political birth, he might not have been nominated in Chicago. But now, both are handicaps to him.

ASSIGNMENT—Williams also headed the National Citizens' Committee for Eisenhower in the convention struggle and the campaign. It was this organization which mobilized elements of the electorate that liked Ike, but were not too keen for his Republican associates. They testified to the President's vote-getting popularity.

Thus, Williams now has two assignments. He will try to improve relations with the politicians and Republican members of Congress in everyday dealings with them. Adams has rubbed their sensitive for the wrong way.

He will also set to work to revive the National Citizens' Committee for Eisenhower in anticipation of the 1954 congressional campaign. Unless they can be persuaded to turn out and vote for Republican legislative candidates for Ike's sake, he may be confronted with a hostile Congress in the last two years of his first term. That could be disastrous.

NO BUDGING—Many Republican leaders had hoped that Gov. Hugh Gregg of New Hampshire would appoint Adams to the Senate vacancy created by the death of Charles W. Tobey, thus removing the controversial figure from the White House scene in a painless operation. Instead, he named Robert W. Upton, a 69-year-old lawyer, who preferred Taft to Eisenhower as the 1952 nominee.

Gregg also creased Republican brows by explaining that, despite suggestions he take Tobey's place, he did not feel he should abdicate the governorship "at this time." The quoted qualification suggests that he may make the senatorial attempt next fall, and that Upton is only a one-year seat warmer.

If Gregg entertains these ambitions, and it is assumed here that he does, another scheme for removing Adams from his present post near the throne would be upset.

There is the hope that the White House aide would resign and try for the Tobey vacancy next fall. That would eliminate the possibility that he might enter the primary against Sen. Styles Bridges, who must seek re-election at the same time.

HARMONY—Earlier talk of an Adams-Bridges fight for the nomination has been muted. For the sake of Republican harmony on and off Capitol Hill, Ike could hardly permit his personal chief of staff to oppose the popular Bridges, who is President pro tem of the Senate, chairman of the all-powerful Appropriations Committee and senior Republican in the Upper Chamber.

In the last session Bridges showed his resentment against the prospect of opposition from Adams. He bucked the White House on several important issues.

Thus, a trio of Republicans from the relatively small state of New Hampshire—Gregg, Adams and Bridges—have it in their power to make or break the Eisenhower Administration in the next few critical years. For the hostility toward Adams is antagonizing elements whose defection could prove fatal to Ike's legislative and political program.

A Religious Basis For Real Community Spirit

The Record-Herald Fri., Aug. 21, 1953 5
Washington C. H. Ohio

(By Rev. Sanford C. Lindsey)

As a community we citizens of Fayette County take considerable pride in the progress of our civic, social, and political institutions.

Washington Court House and other Fayette County towns have been growing and prospering through the years and we view with justifiable satisfaction the expansion of our civic and social services and institutions.

Indeed, we think it remarkable to note the generosity with which the citizens have supported almost all projects of community worth. The Memorial Hospital may be cited as an excellent example of community spirit, good planning, and purposeful growth.

UNDERLYING THE instinct of man to cooperate with his fellows in community activity is a social truth that has for its foundation the religious concepts of the past.

It must be remembered that before communities undertook to care for the sick, the aged, and the needy, that function was filled by the Church. As a matter of fact, the custom of "tithing" or giving a tenth of one's income to the Church, was largely a recognition of the Church's activity in providing community services which no other organization was prepared to offer. Hospitals, orphanages, homes for the aged, and visiting nurses, were the responsibility of Christians toward other men.

As our culture became more and more specialized and as we developed into a mechanized age these activities were taken over by public agencies designed to do a better job and on the whole they have functioned to that end with reasonable success. But they still depend upon the spirit of the community for financial support based upon freely given gifts.

Thus it is reasonable that the old "tithing" principle has been reduced to less than 10 percent for the Church because we must support these other organizations which have turned to do the work the Church once did for us.

IN THE PROCESS of this change we think too many of us have forgotten these origins and purposes and in particular too many have forgotten that it is the Christian's bounden duty to support the Church and all other Christian services to the community. It is doubtful if many of us give the Lord His due when it comes to our support of the Church or of community agencies which do works of mercy after the manner of our Lord's commandments.

Let us take a case in point. The Red Cross Program for Fayette County has faltered grievously behind in both financial and spiritual support on the part of our citizenry. Even the Blood-bank is below the quota for the county and that offering is at no cost to any one of us.

There are many critics of the Red Cross (as there are of other community-supported agencies) but without exception those critics are taking the selfish and strictly prudential approach, using a nifty argument, however flimsy, to avoid assisting in this work.

NOW OF ALL the community agencies which do the work of Christian mercy, love and compassion, it is the Red Cross. What other organization was prepared to step in as soon as the Korean War Prisoners were released and take a picture of each man individually, sending these pictures and radio-grams home to parents and wives within 24 hours of the time of release.

The moment those long-imprisoned GIs stepped into freedom, the freely supported, voluntary services of the Red Cross met them with greetings, gifts, and messages from home.

Because we gave money in Fayette County those who fought for our liberty in Korea have found our Christian sense of responsibility for works of mercy, love, and compassion have extended across the oceans.

"Not what we give, but what we share, For the gift without the giver is bare."

Who helps another with his aims, feeds three, Himself, his needy neighbor, and Me?"

Our community spirit must measure up in every way to the noble instincts of our American culture and the nobility of those instincts come from our Faith in God. We may grow in size, in wealth, and in prestige, but we shall not be making a permanent kind of progress unless we are also growing in spirit. And the Christian spirit is that which remembers his responsibility to his fellows in terms of need and personal love.

WHEN THE RED CROSS, or the Community Chest appeals to us, remember that if we turn them down or give them peanuts for any cheap or unworthy excuse we can muster, we are turning away food from the hungry, withdrawing help from our service-men, and even cutting ourselves off from such important civic needs as the Blood Bank Service.

It is not only that we are hurting ourselves as well as others but most important it represents a firm denial of our Christian convictions. Such a denial has eternal consequences for every one of us!

"Hear what our Lord Jesus Christ saith: 'Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind.' This is the first and greatest commandment, and the second is like unto it, 'Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.' On these two laws hang all the law and the prophets."

IT IS PLAIN, then, is it not, that we have a larger view than we sometimes think when we talk about civic pride and community progress. It is clear that our sights have got to be set up to the level of our spiritual hopes if we are to have real and lasting progress in our community and country.

None of us wants less than the best for our community and nation—and therefore none of us dare do less than give freely, work cheerfully, and pray diligently for a true spirit of community progress.

There will be no doubt about our future if we, by God's help, can take that approach to our common problems of community progress.

Minister Issues Plea To Thief

LOCKPORT, N. Y. (P)—"You stole from God," the pastor of Lockport's Baptist Church admonishes the thief who took $60 from an offering box during Sunday services.

Return the money and ask God's forgiveness, the Rev. Harleigh M. Rosenberger advised in an open letter to the thief. It was published in the Lockport Union Sun and Journal.

"This may be the turning point in your life. Let it be toward God and not evil," the pastor said.

Stevenson Sees Big Role For U. S.

NEW YORK (P)—Adlai Stevenson returned from a six-month world tour today and said only the United States can hold the free people of the world together.

Calling his trip a "sobering experience," the defeated Democratic candidate said that "there is one thing I can report with certainty—on the lips of everyone in all the vast regions of this tremendous earth, there is a prayer for peace."

"I hope and trust in the months before us we will find the means, the will and the determination to hold this grand alliance of the free people of the world together. No one else but the United States can do it."

North-South Toll Road Idea Shelved

COLUMBUS (P)—A request by Samuel O. Linnell, state highway director, for $650,000 to survey a Cincinnati-Conneaut turnpike route was tabled yesterday by the state controlling board.

Linnell, a member of the Ohio Turnpike Commission by virtue of his state position, said the money, if advanced from the highway improvement fund, would be repaid from sale of bonds to finance turnpike construction. The board gave no reason for delaying action on the request. One member said he wanted to see how the Northern Ohio Turnpike fared before putting up additional funds.

Draft Eligibles Given Reminder

WASHINGTON (P)—Draft eligibles were reminded yesterday that if they expect to be deferred from military service for fatherhood, they must file evidence of it with their local draft boards by Aug. 25.

Under a change in draft rules ordered by President Eisenhower in July, fatherhood in itself will not be grounds for exemption after Aug. 25 unless there is "proven hardship and privation."

Selective service noted that under the law, fatherhood dates from conception, so a young man may be granted exemption if he files before Aug. 25 a doctor's certificate attesting that his wife is pregnant.

While Cop's Away His Auto Stolen

PICHER, Okla. (P)—Police Chief Gene Crockett, seeing a suspicious-looking car turn into an alley while watching for narcotics runners, jumped into another officer's car and gave chase yesterday.

Losing the quarry, he returned to find his own car stolen.

Council Demands Mayor Quit Job

CLEVELAND (P)—Parma Heights councilmen last night unanimously demanded the resignation of the suburb's mayor, Frank J. Breen.

Building contractor Myron Chichota has obtained a warrant charging the mayor of cheating him of $2,800 by promising to use influence to get him a liquor permit.

The mayor, pleading innocent, said he never promised Chichota he would get the permit. He said he simply borrowed the money from the contractor.

Colonel's Reply Not Reported

INDIANTOWN GAP, Pa. (P)—Said the sergeant to the colonel: "Time to get up."

But when Col. Arthur D. Kemp of Yeadon, Pa., Pennsylvania National Guardsman, walked into the mess hall, no one was on hand but the cooks.

Right behind was Sgt. Richard J. Staples, unofficial bugler.

The sergeant checked his watch and it was 4:15 a.m.

His face turned red and then he said: "Sorry, sir, I saw a rifle company heading for mess and thought it was time to get up."

But the company, as it turned out, was up early to set up targets for the day's firing.

Mrs. Sturgeon Is Hostess To Church Society

The regular monthly meeting of the Sugar Grove WSCS was held at the home of Mrs. Omar Sturgeon Thursday afternoon with eighteen members present.

The meeting was opened by Mrs. Eldon Bethards, president, who read a short poem, and Mrs. Lawrence Black played a piano prelude.

Mrs. Carrie Wilson was devotion leader, which included the hymn "Come Thou Almighty King," Scripture reading from St. Luke, a short article and comments on "Family Life" and closed with prayer.

The usual reports and roll call was followed with activities for the month, 79 cards, 50 calls, 13 flowers, eleven gifts and ten donations.

It was decided to have a study course on the subject, "The Prophet, Jeremiah," and a contribution will be sent to Rev. Jackie Burris, an evangelist at South Salem Church.

Mrs. Virgil Workman was leader of the temperance program and presented Rev. Norman Newman, pastor of the Jeffersonville Methodist Church, who spoke on the subject, "What's Wrong With Taking A Drink?"

Rev. Newman closed his interesting talk with prayer and Mrs. Howard Barney conducted a Bible quiz.

During the social hour, Mrs. Sturgeon was assisted by Mrs. Lawrence, Mrs. Wilbur Hidy and Mrs. Minnie Sturgeon in the serving of refreshments.

The September meeting will be held at the church and will be an all-day event.

King Descendants Hold Reunion

The King reunion of relatives, with friends and neighbors of the Sugar Grove community was held at Sugar Grove Church, Sunday, August 16. Approximately one hundred persons were in attendance. The dining tables in the basement of the church were laden with delicious food which was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

A beautiful, impressive prayer was offered by Heyward G. King of Delaware, Ohio, who expressed thanks for the exceptional heritage that was ours and that we should not be forgetful of the sacrifices made by our forefathers and should cheerfully and willingly labor to carry on the work of the Master.

The reunion was honored by the presence of Mrs. Melissa (Touh) Wain, aged 91 years, of Washington, C. H., and Mrs. C. H. (King) Wilson, 88 years of age, of Bellefontaine, Ohio, who are the only two living grandchildren of the 73 grandchildren of the Rev. John King who settled here in 1816 and is known as "The Father of Methodism in Fayette County." Also present was Mrs. Eliza Waddell, now in her seventies, who, as a bride, played the organ for Sunday School and church services for the Rev. William King, and Mrs. Minnie Sturgeon, widow of William (Billy) Sturgeon, now in her 88th year, and who has lived all her life in this community and attended Sugar Grove Church. She recalled that when plans were being made to erect the present church, the Rev. William King rode horseback to their home and requested she and her husband to serve on the church building committee. Mrs. Sturgeon and Mrs. C. H. Wilson were classmates at Wabash School.

A highlight of the afternoon, and received by long and loud applause, was the announcement that Elmer Armbrust intends to "preserve for posterity" the old brick homestead of Rev. John King. Mr. Armbrust owns the original farm of Rev. John King, and it was with joy and thankfulness that the descendants of the latter, as well as their friends and neighbors present, received the glad tidings of Mr. Armbrust's generosity. He is one of the stalwart supporters of the Sugar Grove Church, carrying on the work that was started many, many years ago by Rev. John King.

The first Methodist Society in Fayette County was founded in the log home of Rev. John King, near where the brick home was built a few years later.

The King descendants expressed a desire to place a suitable plaque on the old homestead during the reunion to be held next year.

Among the other interesting events of the afternoon was the introduction to the crowd of the youngest "Johnnie" King (sixth generation), now seven months old and who was born approximately 166 years after the birth date. March 6, 1786, of his great, great-grandfather, Rev. John King, whose descendants now number more than three thousand.

On display at the reunion was an original picture of Rev. John King in an antique cherry frame; his family Bible published in 1832 on which he had placed a deer skin back after the original back had been thrown out, a beaded pocketbook given 113 years ago by Rev. John King to his daughter, Rachel, upon his return from a trip to New York; and a piece of her silk wedding dress and trim almost 100 years old.

Many of those present at the reunion visited the graves of Rev. John King and his wife, Rachel, in the Sugar Grove Church cemetery.

Also, visits were made to the old homesteads of Rev. John King and Rev. William King, and were enjoyed by all. The warm, cordial welcomes received from Mr. and Mrs. Grove Davis, the present owners of the Rev. William King's homestead, and from Mr. and Mrs. Daugherty, the occupants of the Rev. John King's homestead, were greatly appreciated by everyone.

It was unanimously agreed that another King reunion of the relatives, friends and neighbors in the Sugar Grove community be held at the same place and at approximately the same time next year. James M. King, Columbus, was elected president; Robert King of Greenfield, vice president; and Mrs. Ellen Castle of Dayton, secretary, for the ensuing year.

Reds Communize Romanians But Don't Dent Their Souls

EDITOR'S NOTE—For the first time in five years, four American correspondents have been permitted by Communist Romania to visit that forbidden Balkan country. This is the first of several articles by the Associated Press chief of bureau in Vienna, who was among them.

By RICHARD O'REGAN
BUCHAREST (AP)—Communization of Romania has made the faces of 16 million Balkan people like identical masks—but it has not yet destroyed their souls.

Outside of Russia, probably no Soviet satellite has gone so far in bringing down to one monotonous, miserable level the thoughts and actions of its people.

Bordering on Russia, Romania's rich oil supplies are vital for the Soviet Union. Every sign points to more and more Sovietization for Romania and perhaps its eventual incorporation into the Soviet Union as a 17th republic.

But deeply hidden, there is national restlessness and even a little organized resistance.

For the "Fourth World Festival of Youth" in Bucharest, the capital, Communist Romania admitted U. S. correspondents for the first time in five years and did its best to leave the impression that Bucharest still is the "Paris of the Balkans." But beneath the fresh whitewash, the floodlights and the colored fountains are the signs of communism's "brave new world."

Life has been communized to the smallest detail of existence. Individuality, which despite oppression always marked the national groups of Germans, Hungarians, Greeks and Romanians, seems to have disappeared.

Men wear the same shirts and shabby trousers and women identical cotton prints from the machines of the Gheorghiu-dej ready-made clothes factory. The necktie has been abolished (except for the new Communist aristocracy) and costume jewelry is a rare, luxury item.

To remain unshaven is the mark of the "new man." "Tovaras" is the new greeting.

Recreation has been mass-organized to the extent where even a Communist worker said: "I have to get away for a few hours on my bicycle to escape the street radio." But he can't go far without police checks.

Hour after hour, insistent, nerve-shattering and deafening loud-speakers on the streets mix propaganda with Russian music. Radiofication—as it is called—pipes controlled programs into loudspeakers which can't be adjusted in thousands of town and village homes, factories and farms.

No time is allowed for individual thought or action. If not attending political lectures or "cultural" events, the Romanian today is rushed in buses to take part in parades.

"Only the party big shots can see the parades," explained a Western diplomat. "The public is forced to march in them."

With its own peculiar morality, communism cut out completely Bucharest's once-gay night life. Golf courses (a "decadent" sport) have been made into military training grounds, gambling casinos into lecture halls.

Enterprise has been almost 100 per cent socialized. Only a few private artisans, like tailors and shoemakers who cannot get cloth or leather, remain. And a few beggars.

Far more effort appears to have been made in trying to "educate" the Romanian masses to communism than in other satellites. Yet, though a massive, all-embracing propaganda has made most Romanians act in a Russian behavior pattern, six years of communism apparently have failed to make the majority think like Russians.

"Even the Communists do not believe their own lies," said a letter secretly slipped to visiting American correspondents.

There was a certain unruliness about the crowds who found everyday police terror somewhat relaxed during the presence of 30,000 foreign youths attending the festivals. Although there seemed a sea of uniforms to Westerners, residents said there were less than usual.

By the eager firmness of their handshakes, the look in their eyes, or the way they they spat out Communist slogans, they showed their hate of communism and a lingering hope of liberation when they met non-Communist Westerners.

Although he knew they were watched by secret police, an old lawyer, in a pitiful assortment of clothes, approached two Americans and said: "I heard you speaking English. It is shocking what has happened to the middle class. Many of my friends are starving or are in prison. Communism is slowly reducing us all to the lowest level." "War would be horrible but nothing like this system," muttered a clerk in a key Communist ministry.

Kinsey Report On Human Female Behavior Published

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. — Dr. Alfred C. Kinsey authorized publication today of the scientific findings in his long-awaited second book, "Sexual Behavior in the Human Female."

It is more than just statistics or candid confessions of what women do. By comparing men and women it offers keys for happier marriages and sounder sex laws. Five unusual chapters tell the full science of sex.

The new Kinsey report finds women stay young longer than men in sex activity.

Human sex lives, it also finds, are as different as fingerprints.

The only basic sex difference between men and women is mental or psychological, the female book says.

As many persons suspected, it finds the roaring 20s really brought a sharp change in American women's sex lives. They changed toward less frigidity in marriage, and more experience and freedom before marriage.

Parents in the 20s, the time of the big change, were right in complaining about wildness of the younger generation. Since then there's been little change, and less criticism from parents because the parents had done the same things themselves.

The change in the 20s has reduced frigidity in marriage by one-third to one-half what it was among wives born before 1900.

No two persons are exactly alike in their sex lives, none fits entirely into all the averages Kinsey has yet found. Each person can easily believe that what she or he does is normal.

This individual variation "is the most persistent reality of human sexual behavior." And "there are no sexual qualities found in only one sex or the other."

Women show greater extremes in sex than do men.

Women sense their greater variation, and so hesitate to discuss their sex lives with other women. This lack of comparing notes is often a reason for women's ignorance about sex.

The female report draws on interviews with 5,940 females aged

This is the latent unrest of the city masses. In the mountains, diplomats say, there have been sporadic indications of organized bands. Peasant villages in the foothills are frequently searched by police for weapons. An apparent underground group blew up a textile store in Bucharest recently.

All live in the hope that, with the new trend of East-West relations, Romania may shake off the Russian yoke.

"When the time comes and I hope it will be soon," said a street-car conductor, "fully 95 per cent of us will rise up against communism."

"The Russian people may be educated to communism by now, and they get a feeling of national pride from its accomplishments. But the Russians have occupied us many times in history and our pride is too strong to let them keep it up for long."

Kinsey Report On Human Female Behavior Published

2 to 90, of various religions, education and occupations.

It also draws upon the institute's 16,000-volume sex library, upon studies by anthropologists, gynecologists, psychiatrists and other experts, upon analysis of sex laws, sex life in other countries, sex life of animals, and individuals sex diaries and calendars.

Five special chapters tell the up-to-date story of the anatomy, physiology, psychology, nerve mechanisms and hormone influences in sex.

Fifteen years in preparation, the new 842-page book will be published Sept. 14 (W. B. Saunders Co., Philadelphia, $8.00).

More readable than the male book published five years ago, the new report is authored by all 14 members of the staff of the Institute for Sex Research, Inc., at Indiana University. Main co-authors with Dr. Kinsey are Drs. Wardell B. Pomeroy, Clyde E. Martin and Paul H. Gebhard.

All profits from the book go to the institute to continue the male and female studies and for future reports on sex laws, marital adjustments, sex education and other projects.

Twenty-Eight Entries in Market Hog Show Here

IRVIN YEOMAN of near New Holland poses beside his champion hog he entered in the hog show and sale at Producers Stockyards Thursday. This hog won top honors in the individual class. (Record-Herald photo)

Fayette County's fourth Market Hog Show and Swine Day, held Thursday at the Producers Livestockyards, had a total of 28 entries.

The quality of the entries, as commented on by the judges, has shown improvement during a year's show and the total quality was equal to what will be seen at the Ohio State Fair.

The Market Hog Show is a project of the Extension Service and the Swine Breeders and Feeders Association and grew out of the "Carcass Cut-Out" demonstrations here which were started in 1949. The idea of the commercial show is to demonstrate the selection of meat-type hogs.

Judges of the show were Herbert Barnes, extension animal husbandman, Ohio State University, and W. H. Bruner, marketing specialist of the University. The judging started at 10 A. M. and placings of the 28 groups were completed by 12 noon.

THE AFTERNOON'S educational program started at 1:30 and included the giving of the official placings and reasons by Barnes.

Lester Miller, agricultural agent of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, was present and presented the show ribbons to the winners. The B&O Railroad is one of the big supporters of the show, annually contributing $100 and the ribbons toward making the show a success.

Bruner, in commenting on the program of market hog pools in the state of Ohio, said that more than 21 markets are conducting some type of hog pool where No. 1 hogs are sold at the premium. So far this year, over 100,000 head have moved through market pools throughout the state.

L. K. BAER, swine salesman for the Eastern Order Buying Co. of the Producers Livestock Cooperative Association, Columbus, in speaking of the marketing problems of meat-type hogs, stressed the following points: 1. the finding of outlets; 2. finding the ready acceptance for the meat-type hog.

He said that packers were finding that good hogs are cheap hogs, and fully expects that in the future that all hogs will be sold on their merits.

The sale of the hogs took place in the auction ring at 3 P. M. and were sold by Jess Schlichter, auctioneer. Jerry Nessel, manager of the Producers Livestock Marketing Association, was in general charge of the sale of hogs.

THE OFFICERS and directors of the Swine Breeders and Feeders Association were very grateful for the financial support of the show which was made possible through the following business firms:

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, McDonald Elevator, Sunshine Feed Store, Hockman Feed & Grain, Dr. R. D. Little, Kirk Stockyards, New Holland Grain, New Holland Feed & Farmers Supply, Dr. Heinz Co., Fayette Farm Service, Farm Bureau Co-op, Wilson's Hardware, W. P. Noble, Drs. Freed Cameraman Relates Further POW Experiences

(Editor's note: This is the last story by AP photographer Frank Noel on his 32 months as a Communist prisoner in North Korea. Noel is receiving medical treatment in Tokyo before returning to the United States.)

By FRANK NOEL
As Told to Olen Clements

TOKYO (AP)—After I received my camera in January 1952, the Chinese let me take pictures in four of the six camps where non-Korean war prisoners were held.

In my wandering around the camps I got a pretty fair idea of how many men were in each and I estimated there were between 4,000 and 5,000 men, mostly Americans, in the hands of the Reds.

Another 3,000 died in the camps and are buried in the hills around Pyoktong and Chongchong, where most of the camps were located. That would account for up to 8,000 of the 13,000 non-Korean troops estimated to be missing today.

The Chinese did not mark these camps for aerial identification during the first year of the war. When they did mark them they used the Chinese characters that I was told meant "peace" rather than a prisoner camp.

One day about three months ago I saw three wagon loads of TNT—about 60 boxes of it to the wagon—dug up and taken out of Camp 5. Filipino, Puerto Ricans, Turks, French and Greek POWs were held there. If a bomb had struck that camp accidentally the whole bunch would have been killed.

The Reds tried to cover up the great number of deaths among the POWs—sometimes as many as 48 bodies in one day were seen being moved out of the camp—by trying to force Allied doctors to say the men died of syphilis contracted before they were captured. None of the doctors would go for it and a good many of them did time in the hole as a result.

We were held right near the border of Manchuria and a Chinese leader told me one day if the Allies ever tried to liberate the prisoners the Chinese would take those they wanted to keep across the border into China. Perhaps they have done so now.

When I was captured in November of 1950 along with Marines, Army and British troops at Koto, North Korea, they walked us to Camp 5—about 700 miles over the winding route they made us take. Camp 5 then held officers and enlisted men. That was about April, 1951.

In the summer they herded about 600 men and officers into a Korean theater and made the rest listen to loudspeakers outside while a high Chinese gave a bitter harangue against the "capitalistic warmongers."

He told the enlisted men they should have turned their guns on their officers, who were "the real warmongers in America." The lecture didn't go over very well with either the enlisted men or officers.

The Communists tried every way in the world to indoctrinate the prisoners. They succeeded in some cases, but I would say the percentage was very small.

They used race against race and nationality against nationality in an effort to stir up animosity among the prisoners. On that score I was real proud to note 99 per cent of our men, regardless of race or creed, stood pat. They knew what was going on and didn't buy it.

Later on the Reds opened up Camp 2 and moved all the officers up there. They insisted that I was a Marine captain and moved me there with the officers despite my protests that I was a civilian war correspondent.

In trying to make me admit I was a Marine captain they made me stand at attention for hours at a time out in the raw cold. Other times they made me stand with my nose pressed against a bright light for hours on end in an effort to break me down or force me to write something favorable to them. I guess that is what is wrong with my eyes now.

Once, while they had me in the hole, they tried to force me to write letters down to my correspondent friends at Panmunjom, Munsan and Seoul telling them they were being misled by the United Nations propaganda. They also asked me to write to the New York Times, Chicago Tribune, Philadelphia Evening Bulletin, Baltimore Sun, Kansas City Star and the Los Angeles Times, and tell them "the peoples peace movement" was right and just. I refused. They even forged some of our names to letters and published them. I know of several such cases.

Actually I've talked with some of the Chinese soldiers from time to time and they have told me that half or more of the so-called volunteers are anti-Communist and were conscripted.

One day in early 1951 some of the Turks, who were pretty staunch Allied troops, heard that the New York Herald Tribune's reporter, Maggie Higgins, had been captured. They told me about it. I had known Maggie in Berlin and again in Korea. None of us liked the idea of an American woman being in the hands of the Reds so we got together a few little things we could spare for her and about $80 in American greenbacks and gave it to the Turks to get to her. We knew the Chinese were crazy for greenbacks and figured that small amount of money might help her out.

The Turks took the money and about four months later returned everything to all the donors because they had learned through the grapevine that Miss Higgins had not been captured.

I sure liked those Turks. They were good soldiers and good men. The Chinese never were able to do much with them. The Turks just shrugged their shoulders and pretended they didn't understand.

They even brought in a Turkish-speaking Russian who had once worked in the Russian embassy at Ankara. He didn't have any luck either and may be in a Russian hole somewhere today for having failed.

The Reds told us one day that the United States government was holding up 67,000 letters to POWs. I think it was the other way around.

I know people wrote me and thanked me for making pictures of their prisoner kin. Americans do things like that. I got about 10 such letters in prison camp but I'll bet there were many more.

I had intended to write letters to those 10 or 12 people and thank them but the Communists took those letters away from me when I was freed on Aug. 9. Now I don't have the names or addresses. I was only permitted to write two letters a month while I was in prison and of course they went to my wife.

They took away from me every address I had in writing when I left.

Two controversial questions deal with a 500 million dollar highway bond issue and a state board of education.

Proceeds from the bond issue would be used solely for arterial highways and their urban extensions. Only 125 million dollars worth of bonds could be issued annually and none after March 31, 1962. Road revenues already in effect would retire the bonds by 1972.

The proposed state board of education would select as state superintendent of education, now appointed by the governor.

Another question offered by the legislature will not go on ballots until November, 1954. It calls for a decision on four-year terms for elective state officials and legislators.

Issues in the order of their ballots appearance call for:

1. A 500 million dollar highway bond issue.

2. A state board of education to pick a state school superintendent.

3. Removal of the word "white" from the article providing that "all white male citizens . . . being 18 years of age and under the age of 45 years, shall be enrolled in the militia . . ."

4. Repeal of the section, no longer used calling for election of militia officers by persons subject to military duty.

5. Elimination of a section empowering the legislature to pick U.S. senators that was changed by amendment but never stricken from the state constitution.

6. Removal of an outmoded section preventing appointment of women to public positions unless those positions involved "the interests or care of women or children or both."

7. Repeal of an 1851 provision creating a commission to revise proceedings of state courts that the legislature later approved.

8. Cancellation of a section applying only to office holders Nov. 7, 1905.

9. Repeal of the section authorizing World War I bonus payments long since made.

Huge Ballot Facing Ohioans In November

Nine Constitution Changes To Be Decided By Buckeye Voters

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—One of the ballots for Ohioans to mark at the Nov. 3 election is blanket-sized.

It measures 15 by 25 inches and contains nine proposed changes in the state constitution. Most of the proposals deal with obsolete or inconsistent sections.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown prescribed the ballots to county election boards for printing. He said their size was necessary because the 100th General Assembly required considerable explanation printed on some of the questions.

Each question provides spaces for yes or no X marks by voters. A favorable majority vote by those marking each question is required for passage.

Similar ballots for precincts using voting machines also were prescribed.

Connally Snorts At Dems, Says Ike May Hurt Himself

WASHINGTON (AP)—Tom Connally is a gray-haired political warrior who has retired to the sidelines, but the fiery Texan is snorting his disapproval these days over the conduct of some of his fellow Democrats.

Retirement has dulled neither the mind nor the tongue that kept him in Congress for almost 36 years and made him an international figure. He is observing his 76th birthday today and has this to say about his party:

"The Democrats can overdo this business of bragging about their support of President Eisenhower. That sort of thing may be no help in the years to come.

"Besides, they should make it clear they will vote for a program on its merits alone—not whether Eisenhower is for or against it.

Most things the Democrats have supported were programs which were initiated by the Democrats in the first place. They've just been voting for what they believed in all the time."

Connally made the statement as he sat on the pleasant tree-shaded porch of the home here where he lives with his wife and his memories of the years when he was an actor in history-making events.

Speaking of Eisenhower, he said: "I think Ike's capital stock is his personal popularity as a war hero. I think his popularity is still holding—maybe not as strong as it was, but it's still there. And there's no doubt the Democrats in Congress have helped him with their support on several measures.

"I think he's shown very clearly that he has an extremely conservative viewpoint. Many of his important appointments have gone to men with no practical experience in government or politics—though they may have had experience in big business and monopolies.

"If this trend continues, it's going to hurt him. People don't want big business to dominate us."

Don Wood Team Is Tops; Becomes 'Host Team'

The Don Wood softball team won a doubleheader at Wilson Field Thursday night and thus gained the right to represent Washington C. H. as the "host team" in the men's regional softball tournament to be held at Wilson Field on Sept. 4, 5, 6 and 7.

The Woodmen won the first game from the Washington C. H. Cardinals, 5 to 1, and then came back in the nightcap to swamp the Rocking Chair Inn, 9 to 3. In the other game played last night, the Rocking Chair Inn turned back the Dayton Power and Light Co., 12 to 2.

In the first game last night, Joe Drake, on the mound for the Woodmen, had a no-hitter going in the seventh inning when the Cardinals' first baseman, Henry, came through with a single. The Cardinals also tallied its lone run in the last frame on Henry's single, a walk and an error.

THE WOODMEN banged out six hits off the losing hurler, Gardner. The winners had their biggest inning in the sixth when four runs were shoved across the plate.

Drake was the winning pitcher. He fanned nine.

DP&L was limited to only three hits, in the second game, by the Rockers' hurler, Evans, as it was defeated, 12 to 2. The Rockers collected eight hits off the losing pitcher, F. Reno.

The big frame for the Rockers was the fourth, in which six runs were marked up. The winning pitcher was Evans and Reno was charged with the loss.

IN THE NIGHTCAP, Drake turned in another fine pitching performance as he led the Woodmen to a 9 to 3 win over the Rockers.

Drake allowed the Rockers only three safeties as he fanned seven. Alkire paced the Woodmen in the hitting department, getting three for four trips to the plate.

The losing pitcher was Evans. He was nipped for 11 hits.

Pronto Don Heads Field At Yonkers

YONKERS, N. Y. (AP) — Pronto Don, the biggest money winning trotter of all time, with $255,236, heads a field of eight in the Putnam at Yonkers Raceway tonight. If he wins, Don will add something like $10,000 to his earnings.

The big money race of the week at the course was last night's Yonkers pacing derby, worth $25,000, and won by Wilmington's Star. The winner was caught in 3:06. This clipped two seconds from the track record for a mile and a half.

The times were only two-fifths of a second off the world mark set July 30 by Chuck Vol in winning the $50,000 Nassau Pace at Roosevelt Raceway.

Wilmington's Star, owned by R. L. Craig of Urbana, Ohio, was well up in the 12-horse field during the entire distance, and passed the pace-setting Thomas B. Scott in the final surge from the top of the stretch.

Washington Horse Wins In Illinois

Pleasant Surprise defeated a select field of three-year-old pacing fillies at the Illinois State Fair Wednesday afternoon. Driven by McKinley Kirk, she defeated the horse that had caused her to be defeated in her last two previous starts. That horse was Countess Vivian, who won important stake races at Roosevelt Raceway and Goshen, N. Y.

Times Square, owned by Eddie Kirk of Washington C. H., and driven by McKinley Kirk finished behind Marvel Way in the first heat in a blanket finish and was fifth. Times Square starting in the second tier after drawing ninth position went the first half in 58 seconds but couldn't get to the inside. Nevertheless, under a furious stretch drive it took a photo finish to decide the winner. Times Square was timed in 1:59.3 after racing on the outside most of way.

Other starters and their finishing positions were Newport Chief 3-3-2; Knox Hanover 4-2-3 and Times Square 5-4-4. Those that witnessed the race were wild in their praise for the good racing form of the Kirk entry. They all exclaimed that with a little better post position they would have had a hard time catching him.

On the same afternoon's program McKinley Kirk started his two-year old pacer Amotiser and finished 5-6 behind Parker Byrd in 2:01, and Queen's Adios in 2:02.2. Amotiser was right there at the finish and he is being counted upon to develop into an excellent candidate for future races.

24 OSU Lettermen Get Practice Call
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio State football team, facing its toughest schedule in history, starts practice Labor Day with 24 lettermen returning.

Coach Woody Hayes said yesterday he is counting on a veteran line to protect a speedy backfield, geared for air power. Among the returnees will be John Borton, Buckeye passing record holder, who will call signals for Hayes' split-T in the opening game here Sept. 26 against Indiana.

New Carlisle Is Eliminated In Big Pro Tournament

The New Carlisle baseball team was eliminated from the National Semi-Pro Tournament being played at Wichita, Kans., in a game Thursday by the Alpine, Tex., Cowboys, 8 to 0.

The tourney is double elimination and this was the second game that the Ohio team has lost. It was defeated first by the Casa Grande, Ariz., Cotton Kings, 6 to 1.

The only game in the tourney that New Carlisle won was Wednesday from the Rutland, Vt., Bulldogs, 7 to 1.

New Carlisle was the winner of the Ohio state semi-pro baseball tournament that was held here at Wilson Field the latter part of July and the first of August. In winning the tourney here, New Carlisle won five games and lost none.

Arcaro Due For Tell-Tale Dancer Ride

CHICAGO (AP)—Eddie Arcaro may have put himself on a spot by taking over Native Dancer for Saturday's $105,000 American Derby but it's a spot every other jockey would like.

This particular spot should be worth at least 10 per cent of the $70,000 the Dancer is expected to earn by running nine other 3-year-olds into the Washington Park turf.

The spot also is considered much more desirable than the one Arcaro has occupied in other races involving himself and Alfred G. Vanderbilt's great gray horse. As Arcaro himself pointed out:

"I'm an expert on Native Dancer's stern. I finished behind him eight times."

Eddie got the assignment because the Dancer's regular rider, Eric Guerin, is under suspension. Guerin, who guided Native Dancer to 17 victories in 18 starts, drew 10 days on the rails for a foul Saturday at Saratoga.

Now Arcaro, like Native Dancer something of a celebrity in the racing world, could be a party to one of the most embarrassing upsets of many a season.

The dancer is expected to be a 1 to 5 favorite for the mile-and-an-eighth derby on the basis of the sensational win record compiled under Guerin.

But even the greatest of thoroughbreds have off days and it's not inconceivable that Saturday, with a strange rider, Native Dancer could falter. Arcaro's lean, leathery face undoubtedly would be tinged with red should this happen.

Lush Handicap Faces Gunmen At Vandalia

VANDALIA (AP)—Trapshooting offers its most coveted championship today, the 100-target Grand American Handicap.

A first prize of $1,500 is assured the winner and his "take" could go as high as $10,000. But to many of the marksmen the money is incidental. Many who have won every other title would trade them all to be inscribed in the "Roaring Grand's" hall of fame.

The starting field is expected to exceed the record of 1,786 set in 1947, and they'll come from the cities and the crossroads, all the states, Canada, Cuba, the Canal Zone, Alaska and Australia.

The big handicap is the "duffer's delight." The experts, handicapped back as far as 25 yards, have little chance to win.

Up from nowhere came Elmer Woods, 57-year-old dirt farmer from Williamstown, Ohio, with a score of 99 from 19 yards to take yesterday's Preliminary. He won the $1,000 first prize, but failed to pay the optional additional entrance fee so passed up a chance to pick up an additional few thousand. James Twister of El Paso, Ill., was second in the field of 1,696—just 14 short of the record—as high winds made the target do tricks.

Next in line, tied at 97, the finishers after shoot-offs were Dave Hiller of Georgetown, Ohio; Ed McCormick of Libertyville, Ill.; John Renschler of Frankfort, Ind., and Gottfried Stockinger of Buffalo.

In the other divisions the winners and runnersup were:

Women: Mrs. Jack L. Cox, Wichita Falls, Tex., mother of four, 93 from 18 yards.

Junior: Jack Dudley Alexander, 14, of Shreveport, La.

Professional: T. Clay Williams, Lexington, Ky.

Champion 'Girls' Teams Start Tourney Tonight

Seven champion girls softball teams, including two former regional winners, begin play tonight at Wilson Field in the four-state east central A.S.A. regional tournament.

Warner's Service Station girls, the host team, open the tournament at 6:30 P. M. when they play the J. Shrader Co. girls from Cleveland. The Cleveland entry was the regional champion in 1951.

Second game will be at 7:30 between Detroit, Michigan and Metamora, Ohio. The Northwest Ohio Ramblers from Metamora are the defending regional champs.

Final game of the first round is between Cincinnati and Parkersburg, West Virginia, at 8:30 P. M.

Julian's Appliances from Columbus, the Ohio girls' state champions, drew a bye and will not play until Saturday afternoon, when they meet the winner of the Cincinnati-Parkersburg game.

The first game Saturday afternoon is at 2 P. M. between the loser of the Cincinnati-Parkersburg game and the loser of the Detroit-Metamora contest.

Three tournament games are scheduled for Saturday evening, one Sunday afternoon, two Sunday night and the finals Monday evening. Winner of the championship game goes directly into the world's championship play at Toronto, Canada, September 7-12.

Winners of the Pittsburgh girls tournament were not able to compete in the tournament here, making the series short one team. It was not known until last night that the Cincinnati team would be able to compete but a last minute entry was made.

Judging from the attendance at the men's state tournament here in 1951 and 1952, a capacity crowd should pack Wilson Field each night of the regional tournament and plans are being made to take care of the large crowd.

C of C To Be Represented At State Meeting

Tax Revenues To Be Taken Up With Federal Government

Representatives of the Washington C. H. Chamber of Commerce and possibly some others from this community, are expected to attend a conference called at Columbus to consider recommendations for an Ohio-sponsored movement to arrest the trend toward greater centralized government at Washington D. C. and a clarification of the tax revenue situation between state and federal governments.

This state meeting, called by the Ohio Chamber of Commerce and C of C executives over the state, will be held Thursday, September 3.

Secretary Ed Kreider, of Washington Chamber of Commerce who is on the state board of Ohio C of C executives, says that there has been no advance meeting here as yet to formulate a local program but that the interest here among business executives indicates that Fayette County will play some part in the proceedings.

Suggestions will be developed for future determinations in the relationships and responsibilities properly belonging to the federal government and those which should be assumed by Ohio and other states and their political subdivisions, it is said.

The recommendations to clarify areas where confusion, duplication, and overlapping now exist will be presented to the Commission on Intergovernmental Relations at Washington D. C.

The commission, recently authorized by law, is to blueprint a program for Congress in simplifying federal, state and local government relations with a view to re-allocation of revenue sources and functions.

Former Law School Dean Clarence Manion of Notre Dame, named this week by President Eisenhower to head the Commission, was the speaker at the Ohio Chamber's Annual Meeting Banquet in Cleveland last year.

The Ohio Chamber is collaborating also with 32 State Chambers of Commerce in a nation-wide movement of study and education in this area.

The Ohio Chamber has waged a vigorous campaign for years for a return to the states power and responsibilities usurped by the federal government. Specifically the organization has been urging Congress to stop enacting taxes on revenue sources rightfully belonging to the States and local government, and to repeal existing taxes based on such sources.

Cooler Weather Is To Continue

The cooler weather is to continue another day at least, and temperatures Saturday are expected to be about the same as on Friday.

Thursday's maximum was 81 and minimum 54 degrees, compared with a 53 degree minimum the previous night.

There is now urgent need of rainfall over most of Fayette County, but the forecast for Saturday does not mention likelihood of rain.

Seal the windows, bar the door.
I will enter it no more;
She is gone... the empty room
Is impressive with gloom,
And there is no hint or trace
Of her sweet, diffusing grace.

Sorrow never can be sweet;
Even love's sylvan power
Has no lethal in the hour
Of bereavement, to forstay
Fate's predestinated sway.

There's a grief that is too deep
To bewail or to bemoan;
Time may dull the ardent pain,
But its imprint will remain;
Seal the windows, bar the door.

City Levy May Be Submitted In Two Parts

Citizens Committee Recommends Action To City Council

At a meeting of the Citizens Committee, Thursday night, it was voted to submit two levy proposals at the coming November election, to provide funds to ease the serious financial situation which has been and is still facing the city, instead of one levy.

Originally the committee, which was named at a mass meeting to discuss financial problems of the city, had voted to seek a levy for 2.45 mills and submit a breakdown of the proposed levy for its various purposes on the ballot if possible.

City Solicitor William Junk held that a levy must be for a specific purpose, and not for several purposes, when placed on the ballot.

It was to take up this phase of the matter that the meeting was held Thursday night, and in the absence of Joe Peters, chairman, Mac Dews, one of the committee members named, presided.

It was decided to recommend to city council that two levies be submitted, one for 1.95 mills for street upkeep and repair; the other for .5 of a mill for debt service.

City Manager, James F. Parkinson was present and took part in the discussion. He is in accord with the change in the levy proposal.

It is expected that council will take up the matter at the meeting Wednesday night of next week, and pass on the recommendation. It will then be certified to the Fayette County Board of Elections to appear on the question and issue ballot in November.

Pre-School Registration Announced by Officials

Special pre-school registration and meeting dates for Washington C. H. students were announced today by Superintendent W. A. Smith and Principal E. W. Titus.

Over a thousand high school pupils will receive their schedules through the mail by the end of August, Titus stated. These schedules will go to the ones who registered for grades 7 through 12 last spring.

Students who attended Washington High School last year, who do not receive their schedules by Tuesday, Sept. 1, should report to the high school office to be scheduled.

FROM 9 TO 11:30 A. M. on Wednesday, Aug. 26, all students who did not attend the Washington City Schools last year and who have not been scheduled, are asked to report to the high school principal's office. This includes those new students who will be in grades 7 through 12.

A new feature this year will be a special pre-school meeting of those students who will enter the seventh grade. The purpose of this meeting is to give them an opportunity to get acquainted with their new school, to learn about procedures, and to take a tour of the building. Schedules received in the mail should be brought by the students to the high school auditorium for this pre-school meeting at 10 A. M. on Wednesday, Sept. 2.

On Thursday, Sept. 3, all other new students in grades 8 through 12 should report to room 116 in the high school at 10 A. M. for a similar program of orientation. These students should enter the building through the North Street entrance to the high school.

ANOTHER NEW feature will be a pre-school meeting of the first graders in their respective buildings, to be held at 2 P. M. on Tuesday, Sept. 8. Mothers are urged to come to this meeting with their first grade children. The teachers and building principals will be present to explain procedures and answer questions concerning the school program. No buses will be run for this session, but will start operation on Sept. 9. It is highly important that all first graders attend this pre-school session on Sept. 8.

Regular classes will start with a half-day session on Wednesday, Sept. 9. High school pupils will be admitted to the building at 8:30 A. M., with the tardy bell ringing at 8:40.

In the elementary buildings, the pupils may enter the building at 8:50 A. M.

Elementary school district boundaries and exceptions will be shown in the Record-Herald on Wednesday, Aug. 26.

Seek Man And Kidnaped Pair

Ross County Man To Face Charges

Officers in this part of Ohio have been alerted to be on the lookout for William Willett, 27, of Ross County, who kidnaped his estranged wife and child and drove away with them after breaking into a neighbor's home and forcibly taking the pair with him.

The crime occurred on the Walnut Creek Road between Clarksburg and Chillicothe, where Mrs. Willett was staying after having sued her husband for divorce.

The home broken into was that of Mrs. Richard Silcott. Willett first tore off a screen door, then went to a side window where Mrs. Willett and baby and Mrs. Silcott were.

He first tore off the window screen then smashed the window. Bits of glass shattered the two women and baby.

Willett crawled through the window, scuffled with his wife, and finally dragged her and the baby through the window and placed them in his car, Mrs. Silcott said.

Mrs. Silcott reported Mrs. Willett and the baby were covered with blood as Willett drove away with them after telling Mrs. Silcott he had a tank full of gas, had a gun and would shoot any pursuers.

She said she would file a charge of assault and battery against Willett.

No word has been received from Willett or his wife and child since the incident occurred.

The Business and Professional Women's Club has scheduled an interesting feature program for its meeting Tuesday evening, August 25, at the Country Club, when colored movies will be shown of Fayette County's Sesquicentennial parade.

The Legislative Committee of the club is in charge of the meeting and has been planning exhibit of these pictures which were taken by various members of the club from different locations along the line of march.

Club members and guests are certain to find these movies of much interest since the club's float, depicting the important role women have played in the progress of this state and nation, was winner of fourth prize among the scores of floats in the parade.
